

Opportunity to join the YSS 2019 committee!

The Young Statisticians Section (YSS) of the Royal Statistical Society are seeking enthusiastic individuals to join the YSS Committee for 2019.

The YSS exists to support and bring together statisticians in the first 10 years of their careers – including students. We run a number of events each year for young statisticians, including careers days, webinars, competitions and a variety of sessions at the RSS Annual Conference, as well as supporting numerous other conferences and events in the statistical calendar. See our website, Facebook and Twitter for further details of our YSS events and activities!

Being a volunteer for the YSS Committee is a commitment but very rewarding (and fun!)

We are looking for people with new and creative ideas for reaching out the early-career statistics community, and to help organise events targeted at young statisticians.

You will be expected to attend three committee meetings per year, at RSS headquarters in London or in other major UK cities, represent the YSS and RSS at events (reasonable travel expenses paid) and help to organise events remotely via e-mail or phone conference

If you would like to be considered for one of the committee positions, send an email (subject line “YSS Committee 2019”) to Sarah (sjn16@liverpool.ac.uk) by 5pm on Wednesday 19th September 2018, with a short statement (up to 250 words) summarising your background and why you’d like to join the committee.

Please note that to take up a position you must be or willing to become a full fellow of the RSS and within the first 10 years of your statistical career.

Names of the YSS Committee 2019 will be announced in October 2018.

If you are attending the RSS Conference in Cardiff (3-6 September 2018), and would like to find out more about the YSS, please do come up and have a chat with the current committee – just look for the red t-shirts!
